

Double Nuclear Transfer Method and Results Thereof

The present invention provides a method of reconstituting an animal embryo, the process comprising transferring a nucleus into a first oocyte followed by removing and transferring said nucleus from said oocyte to a further oocyte or to an enucleated fertilised zygote.